LIFE'S JOURNEY.

We journey to a better land,
A country out of sight;
A Father's hand supports our steps,
His presence gives us light.

The way is oft beset with snares,
And clouds loom overhead;
But clinging closer to our Guide,
No evil do we dread.

But when the skies are bright and fair,
And pleasures crown our days,
We wander from our Heavenly Friend
Into forbidden ways.

We gather pleasant fruits, that turn
To ashes in our grasp;
We pluck the blooming flowers, and find
A serpent in our clasp.

"Our Father, lead us back again
Into thy paths of peace;"
We cry, and lo! our Guide appears,
And bids our wanderings cease.

He takes us once more by the hand
And wipes away our tears,
Forgives our wayward wanderings,
And soothes our guilty fears.

His hand supports us all the way
Along the toilsome road,
Until, at last, our journey o'er,
We reach His blest abode.

WAS HE GUILTY?

I.

"Sheriff, remove this prisoner!" commanded the Judge.

"Five years, five long years in the penitentiary! Great God! I am not guilty! I am not!" cried Reginald Forrester, as he was led away.

He had been sentenced to five years' hard labor for the crime of breaking the dam of John Cluny's flouring mill. Two brothers, James and Charles Crocker, were the principal witnesses. They swore that late one night about six months before, as they were walking home, they saw Forrester walking rapidly along the path leading to the dam. Thinking that something had happened to the sluice-gates, they were about to follow in order to assist, when they saw that he began to cut away the props that upheld the timbers. Horror-struck, they stopped. It was too late. The dam gave away. Rushing down the road toward the mill they shouted—

"The flood! the flood!"

The miller heard the shouts, and had just time to save himself and his family; shortly afterward the flood reached the mill, and swept it away. A merchant of the village close by swore that Forrester bought an axe, a shovel and a pick on the evening previous to the breaking of the dam. The axe was found hidden among some bushes close to the path, and was identified by the merchant to be the same which Reginald bought of him. The miller swore that Forrester had several times been seen lurking around the mill. The miller further stated that at the time he discharged him, he (Forrester) swore he would be even with him.

"And he destroyed my property because I discharged him for daring, against my wishes, to make love to my daughter, Amy."

II.

It was twelve at noon, just four years after the conviction of Forrester, when the door of the State's prison opened to him. A pale bowed-down man, whose eyes were constantly seeking the ground, walked down the road towards the ferry boat. The crowd that stood on the wharf quickly moved aside as the man tottered towards a bench.

Yes, Forrester, for it was he, had been pardoned by the Governor. Four long years he had toiled in the brick-yard of the prison. Thoughts of self-destruction often flitted across his weary mind. Often, as he stood near the furnace of the brick kiln, he thought that only one bold leap into the roaring flames, and his misery would be at an end.

He had received only two letters during his imprisonment. One was from Amy.

The other letter came from New York. It was from a lawyer, and read: "This is to inform you that Allen Forrester, Esq., your uncle, has departed this life. He died intestate, and you are the sole heir to ——." The letter was received two days before he was pardoned.

"Fortune avails me nothing, the world thinks me guilty," cried he.

III.

"Forrester has come back. I wonder why in the world he wants to come to this place again. He's rich and has threatened to shoot Jim Crocker if he calls him 'convict' again." Such were the reports that spread over the village like wildfire.

At last the news came to the ears of the miller. With a muttered curse upon his enemy, as he called Forrester, he ascended the stairs leading to the second story of the new mill that he had erected in place of the one swept away. His steps were noiseless as he approached Amy's bedroom. He looked through the keyhole. A minute afterwards he wrenched open the door and rushed into the room—he had seen Amy signaling to somebody. As he rushed to the window he caught a glimpse of the figure of a man as he disappeared behind a projecting cliff—it was the form of Forrester. He caught hold of Amy's arm.

Amy uttered a shriek of pain.

He dropped her arm and rushed from the room, but soon returned with a loaded gun in his hands, and dragged her to the open window. The head of a man could plainly be seen rising slowly from behind the cliff. Amy sank upon her knees. The miller released her arm and slowly raised his gun. He had recognized the features of Forrester.

"Signal!" shouted her father, "so that I can be sure of him. I want to shoot him through his black heart!"

"Mercy!" shrieked Amy, raising her hands.

Forrester, who only saw Amy, now crept slowly towards a projecting shelf of the cliff. He did no know what Amy meant by raising her hands. Soon he stood at the extreme edge of the cliff, not more than fifteen or sixteen feet in a horizontal line from her window. Thirty feet below him the water of the canon roared over huge boulders, and behind was a solid wall of granite, twelve feet high. The shelf was only two wide.

"Die, convict!" shouted John Cluny.

Forrester heard the word "convict," saw the old man, saw the bright barrel of the gun as it was pointed towards him, heard the report, then all was blank.

When his consciousness returned, he found himself lying on the top of the cliff. It was night. A form was bending over him. By the dim starlight he could distinguish the features, but a cold shudder passed through his body as he felt a hand upon his face, and heard the well-known tone of the miller.

"He's dead; and I ain't a bit sorry for it, either. But what am I going to do with the body? I can't throw it over the cliff. Well, I guess it's best to stick to my first plan."

The miller took a rope from his pocket, passed it beneath the arm pits of Forrester, and dragged the body to a cave only known to himself. This cave was situated close to where one end of the mill dam was fastened by means of heavy timbers to the cliffs; the opening was concealed by a clump of bushes.

"No one will ever find him there," muttered he.

When he entered the bedroom of his daughter he found her lying upon the floor insensible.

IV.

When Forrester awoke from his death-like swoon, darkness was around him. Painfully he lifted himself upon his elbow. Bending aside the boughs he saw the glimmer of a lantern which stood upon the dam close to the sluice-gates. When Forrester's eyes became more accustomed to the darkness, he perceived the forms of two men who were bending over the breastwork of the gates. Soon the sound of voices came to his ears—he heard his name mentioned. He was about to creep through the opening of the bushes when the men began to walk towards him. About four feet from where he was lying they stopped.

"What time is it, Jim?" said one of them.

"Time enough for our little job," replied the other.

"This time he'll be cooped up for life—you bet," said Jim.

"Or else he'll swing for it," remarked the other.

"He'll swing for it," echoed Jim.

"Look there, Jim," interrupted the other.

"What the devil's up, you fool?"

Forrester had protruded his head. He saw by the light of the burning match the bloated faces of James and Charles Crocker.

"Stuff and nonsense. Go to work. Have you fixed the plank so that you can shove it across the gulch to her window?"

"Yes," growled the brother, "but it was devilish hard work."

"Then we are sure of the gal. Now for the dam," said Charles, moving away.

Like a flash of lightning the plot of the villains was revealed to Forrester.

They first intended to cut the dam; then they would rescue the family of the miller by means of the plank. Of course this latter would insure the gratitude of the miller. The breaking of the dam would again be charged upon Forrester, who, as one of the brothers remarked, "would be sentenced to the penitentiary for life or else would swing for it."

A look toward the dam showed that the water was nearly level with the path. He heard the cracking of timbers and planks as the two men were prying with an iron bar at one of the beams. A rumbling sound was heard—it was the pent up water as it began to overflow the dam. He rose to his feet, and drawing aside the bushes he stepped upon a shelf-like path which ran alongside the cliff.

"Villains!" he shouted. The two brothers looked up, but saw no one, for the light of the lantern was illuminating the sluice gates. They resumed their work. Again Forrester shouted, and again they lifted their heads, when there came a terrible crash mingled with the roar of the water. Forrester heard a cry of despair, and saw James Crocker fall headlong over the dam into the seething water below.

With a prayer upon his lips for the safety of her he loved, he ran along the narrow path until he came opposite the mill.

"The flood! the flood! For God's sake, save your lives! The water is coming! They have cut the dam!" he cried.

The window of Amy's bedroom was thrown open and the miller with lighted candle in hand was standing before it. Too late. The rushing water had already encircled the mill, which was now swaying to and fro.

"Help! help!" shouted John Cluny, raising the light above his head. A cry of terror escaped his lips as the light shone upon the pale face of the man whom he thought he had killed. The candle dropped from his hand as he sank upon the floor. Meanwhile Forrester was searching for the plank. At last he found it. He tried to shove it across the gulf but his strength failed him.

"Oh God! is there no help here to assist me? Help, Help!" he cried, still tugging at the plank.

"Come on, boys," shouted a voice.

"The convict!" cried the foremost, as he held the lantern to the face of the prostrate man.

"He has cut the dam again," cried a miner, "I am sure of it."

"Impossible; see, he has been wounded," cried the first speaker. Forrester pointed to the plank and then towards the mill.

The men understood his gestures. Soon one end of the plank found a resting place upon the window sill, and a man with lantern in hand walked across the swaying bridge and disappeared through the window. Another and another followed. A few minutes after, two men crawled back across the blank, bearing between them the insensible form of the miller, another followed carrying the brother of Amy. But where was the miller's daughter? The last man came across empty-handed. She could not be found.

A white form was seen at the window. It lifted its hands as if to warn some one away. The light of half a dozen lanterns illuminated her ghastly face, which was partially concealed by her long black tresses.

Amy stepped upon the window sill. She had heard the voice of him she loved. Slowly she walked across the plank until she was within a few feet of the men. She stopped. Again her lover pronounced her name. She recognized his voice. A cry of joy came from her lips as she gave a bound which brought her within the reach of the outstretched hands of the men.

Another cry answered from the gulf below—a cry for help. Immediately after, the mill sank with a fearful crash in the canon. But soon the rising waters overcame the slight obstruction and carried it down the channel.

Toward morning, when the water had subsided somewhat, a party of men found the mangled body of James Crocker, which had lodged between two boulders. Close by they found his brother with both legs broken. He was yet alive. A cry of intense pain came from his swollen lips as the men lifted him upon a rude stretcher.

"Let me die here! Let me die here!" cried he. "I feel that I'm hurt inside. Put me down. I have only a short time to live, and want to confess. Reginald Forrester is innocent of the crime for which he suffered. It was I and my brother who cut—"

"Or else he'll swing for it," remarked the other.

"He'll swing for it," echoed Jim.

"Look there, Jim," interrupted the other.

"What the devil's up, you fool?"

Perseverance.

Diligence and energy, directed by good sense must command success.—The last condition is often lacking, and failure is the almost inevitable consequence. A man commences business, gives his whole soul to it, applies himself steadily, early and late, is methodical in his arrangements, and prudent in his measures, and everybody prophesies a decided success. "Everybody" is premature in his conclusions. The man does not get rich so rapidly as he wishes, or some other pursuit seems more attractive and profitable, and he throws up everything, sells out at a ruinous sacrifice, and embarks with all his capital, all his heart in something else, which is abandoned in turn, after an equally brief end, of course, equally unsuccessful trial. So he goes on, verifying the old proverb, "A rolling stone gathers no moss."

The accomplished and eloquent Mr. William Wirt says:

"The man who is perpetually hesitating which of the two things he will do first, will do neither. The man who resolves, but suffers his resolutions to be changed by the first counter-suggestion of a friend—who fluctuates from opinion to opinion, from plan to plan, and veers like a weathercock to every point of the compass, with every breath of caprice that blows, can never accomplish anything great or useful. Instead of being progressive in anything, he will be at best stationary, and, more probably, retrograde in all. It is only the man who carries into his pursuits that great quality which Lucian ascribes to Cæsar nescia virtus stare loco—who first consults wisely, then resolves firmly, and then executes his purposes with inflexible perseverance, undismayed by those petty difficulties which daunt a weaker spirit, that can advance to eminence in any line."

We have read of a man who, on first commencing business, opened and shut his shop day after day for several weeks without selling goods to the value of two cents, but persevering finally made his fortune in that very location. "Did you ever know anybody," asks Jos. C. Neal, "to stick to any kind of business, no matter how unpromising it might be in the beginning, for ten years at most, who did not prosper? Not one—if he stuck to it earnestly, and tried nothing else, no matter how hard he found it at times to keep his head above water, still, if he persevered, he always came out right in the long run—life—in—whatever it might have been at the beginning, at the end of ten years he had made a business for himself."

When, after mature consideration, you have marked out a course for yourself, you must resolve to adhere to it till success shall crown your efforts, or until you have ascertained beyond a doubt that you have mistaken the course.

SINKING VALLEY.—A correspondent in the Philadelphia Press, thus describes Sinking Valley, Blair county, Pa.: Its name, Sinking Valley, is indicative of its character. A large stream enters it from the upper end, and flows for no considerable distance until it sinks into openings in the earth many of which appear to be unfathomable. After a short distance it reappears, only to sink again in the same manner. But by far the most remarkable curiosity is a cave which is entered by this stream. The entrance is something like 15 feet high, by 40 wide. It is nearly a mile in extent, and may be penetrated for a long distance, in an upright posture. Curious stalactites and stalagmites may be obtained, formed by the dropping of water from the roof. Beautiful coruscations flash in the torchlight, like diamonds. Toward the further extremity of this underground passage of the stream, the cave terminates, and the water sinks into a large cleft in the rocks, only to rise again, boiling and surging in a very violent manner in a deep basin, the sides of which are perpendicular. From this basin it flows under the hill through an arch that is well worth the pencil of an artist. Its exit forms that curiosity—of which almost every one has heard—Arch Springs. This we regard as one among the greatest natural phenomena in the country. It is cut through a hill of solid limestone, in such a manner as to suggest the work of art. At its entrance it is 12 or 15 feet in hight, and one might easily pass through in a boat. How such a perfect work could have been effected in a natural manner, is wholly unaccountable. So large is the stream here that a very large grist mill and saw mill are driven by it; yet a great part of the water is not used. After flowing less than a quarter of a mile farther, it falls, with a loud roar, into a cleft in the rocks, after which its course is known to no mortal man. Perhaps it goes to swell the volume of some subterranean river, upon whose banks are built no cities, and the murmur of whose waters are heard by no human ear."

WELL SAID.—It would be no privilege to be the wife of the larger proportion of the men one meets on the street, and I not unfrequently find myself analysing masculine faces, and guessing at the relationship existing between such a one and his wife. It is but rarely, I confess it, that I meet a face which tempts me to say, "Happy is the woman that calls thee husband."

☞ To enjoy a good night's repose, take a cold towel bath before retiring. A bowl of cold water and a hard crash towel, used vigorously over the body, are all that are necessary. (except a clear conscience) to secure a good night's rest.

THE PEACE JUBILEE FIDDLE.—The editor of the Schenectady Star attended the Peace Jubilee in Boston, and thus speaks about the big fiddle:

Gilmore and I went through it.—We were let down into it through one of those S shaped holes on each side of the bridge. When I got down to the bottom I imagined myself inside the old Mohawk bridge at night. Gilmore lost me once, and after two hours frantic search I found him sitting complacently up against the big perpendicular stick that stands in the middle of the fiddle (poetry) to support the weight of the bridge. He was glad to see me. We then got out. Yes, this fiddle is a big thing. An accident occurred while a large party of workmen were engaged in raising the bridge. It slipped and fell and smashed fifteen men as flat as tin foil. Gilmore felt very sorry about this, because it mussed up the fiddle. You may wonder how this mammoth instrument is played and fingered—Well, two little locomotives work the bow, and it is fingered in this way:—Five heavy Dutchmen, dressed in doeskin tights, stand on the fingerboard between the strings. Each man has a string, you know, and when his string wants to be "fingered" he sits down on it as quick as a flash, and up and down again every time another note is wanted. The effect of this novel proceeding is rich. I saw them when the "Devil's Dream" was played, and if there wasn't some tall squatting and getting up again then I never was in Boston. The poor fellow who managed the E string, on account of having to slide along so much to produce slurs, has scorched his tights very badly in the seat.

☞ We are not worthy of loving truth when we can love anything more than that.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR:

JOHN W. GEARY,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

FOR JUDGE SUPREME COURT:

HENRY W. WILLIAMS,

OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

Republican County Convention.

A Convention of the Union Republicans of Huntingdon county, will be held at the Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 10TH, 1869, at 1 o'clock, p. m.

This Convention will be composed of two delegates from each township, borough, ward and district.

The Republican voters of the county are requested to meet at their respective places of holding elections (except the West Ward of the Borough of Huntingdon, who will hold their election at the store room of N. C. Decker lately occupied by Johnston & Watson,) on Saturday, the 7th day of August—in the townships, between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock, p. m., and in the Boroughs between the hours of 6 and 9 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to this Convention.

You are also requested to vote by ballot at the same time for or against the adoption of the Crawford County System, and instruct your delegates accordingly.

H. C. WEAVER,
Chairman County Committee.

☞Can any one tell us by what rule Asa Packer is called the "poor man's candidate?"

☞A Connecticut Yank is not at all repulsive to the Democracy of Pennsylvania after he becomes worth $20,000,000.

☞The Harrisburg Patriot modestly claims that Asa Packer was the "soldier's friend." We as modestly ask: when, where, how and what for?

☞Can any one give us a good reason why Asa Packer should be elected Governor? Is it because he is worth $20,000,000? If not, what has he done that entitles him to the position?

"HONEST INJUN."—Was not Asa Packer nominated for Governor because of his great wealth—his $20,000,000? Would he have been nominated in the absence of any great wealth?

☞Didn't Asa Packer go to Europe during the War and stay there a year or two in order to keep out of the contest, and were not all his sympathies in common with the Democratic party—on the side of the South?

☞It has become a pretty well settled fact that Asa Packer's moneybags secured him the nomination. It was first put down at $100,000. It may have been more but we do not think it was less. Fie! Fie!

☞"Invisible," of the Blair County Radical solemnly denounces the majority of the Harrisburg Democratic Convention "As-a Pack-er rascals." That's a pretty severe pun, but take it as a joke and it will go down easy.

☞We thought of writing a history of the Democratic Convention, but after due and mature deliberation we have concluded to accept Brick Pomeroy's version of it, which was short, sharp, and expressive—"it was a 'red-hot,' Convention."

☞The New York Times says they put too fine a point upon it when they say that Frank Blair, in the army reunion at Long Branch, was the "right man in the right place." Not to put too fine a point upon it, he was a tight man in a tight place.

☞Democrats feel glorious over having a rich candidate. It is true enough a twenty million candidate is a big thing, but should that make one vote against Gov. Geary, who is not so rich, and who during the war did not stay at home making money?

☞Cyrus L. Pershing, the Democratic nominee for Supreme Judge, was known during the war as one of the most violent, bitter and unrelenting partisans belonging to the Democratic faith, and is, therefore, totally unfit to occupy a seat on the Supreme bench.

☞On Monday evening the Democratic candidates were serenaded, at the Merchants Hotel in Philadelphia. Mr. Packer made a speech in which he said:

"I will endeavor to do my part to lead you, as you have placed me in the van, to victory, if possible—and if not, I am certain the defeat shall not be attributed to a lack of any thing that I can do. [Applause and cheering.]

We conclude that "anything" means money, of which he has enough and to spare to get out a full Democratic vote and perhaps bribe a few Republicans.

"Honor to Whom Honor," &c.

The Press has a word for the Philadelphia Democrats in Billy McMullin's Convention, and "resents the peculiarly offensive language and disagreeable insinuations which were so freely used in that Convention against the Philadelphia Democrats" which it considers "unkind, uncalled for and altogther discourteous," and the cause of the Democratic press in keeping them up, as "still more needless and irritating." The editor also objects to the language of Hon. Frank Hughes and the Hon. Wm. Hopkins, about pickpockets and roughs, which he considers unparliamentary, and the incessant repetition of similar flings in country journals he denounces as unprofessional and calls upon Mr. Galbraith to stop it. In support of this defense of the Alderman and his co-adjutors, the Press continues:

"We are locally proud of our Democracy such as they are. We will put the Fourth ward against the Five Points and ask no odds. We can show as noisy and dangerous a convention as New York. We have as many candidates who can boast criminal indictments as brevets for gallant and meritorious party service. The Quarter Sessions is almost as strong a power in our local politics as in those of Gotham. We killed and wounded as many men last year on election night as ever did New York. We honor and regard a Democratic whisky still next to a Democratic judicial decision. The local reputation of the Democracy is second to none; and finally, to conclude the whole matter, we unhesitatingly affirm that at the worst they are not more disorderly or law-breaking or worthless than the Democracy of any other city of similar size."

A MISERABLE SHEET.—Not one of our Republican exchanges is so full of vile scurrility regarding the nominees of the Democratic party as the Huntingdon Globe. The immense wealth of Hon. Asa Packer is the subject of ten separate articles, while the legal ability of Hon. Cyrus L. Pershing is impugned in a contemptible manner. The editor of the Globe is that meanest of all mean things—a renegade. Of course it is necessary that he should wade neck-deep in partisan filth in order to maintain his reputation as a faithful vassal of the Radical party.

The above delightful paragraph (is it necessary to tell it?) is from the Altoona Vindicator. We are very sorry we have offended the moral and refined sensibilities of the pattern of morality and refinement who conducts that sheet, by informing our readers of the "immense wealth" of Asa Packer, the Democratic candidate for Governor. Packer is rich, and the Vindicator man can't lie out of it, and he can't deny that this fact made his nomination. We declare we do not know how we have "waded neck-deep in partisan filth" by telling our readers these facts. We have not vilified Packer, nor do we intend to, but can the Vindicator say as truthfully that it has not, nor will not, traduce Governor Geary. We are heartily glad that the Vindicator has seen fit to notice our course as a Republican journal; but we can assure that journal, and our readers, that we do not need to "wade neck-deep in partisan filth" to maintain our reputation as a first class family newspaper and faithful exponent of the principles of the Republican party. Packer's immense wealth is not all that we may have to speak about in the campaign just opening, but while that is enough to induce voters to vote that he should stay at home, still his war record is such as to need notice at our hands and we shall do it, without listening to our sorehended neighbor.

☞We hear it said that many Republicans are dissatisfied with their party's conduct during the past year, on national and local questions. Let all such remember that no party is infallible—there are bad men in both parties. It was bad men who brought disgrace on the Democratic party, once triumphant, and can any party in power expect to be totally rid of bad men. The fault of evil lies within the party itself, and a remedy for that evil cannot be accomplished by a change of administration. The Democratic party leaders in the South brought the war upon the country, and the stigma so appropriately attached to their crime has brought defeat upon their allies in the North in every former campaign. The faults of the Democratic party should not be forgotten by dissatisfied Republicans in their haste to pick a flaw in the conduct of their own party.

☞In a conversation with a well known Republican, recently, a prominent Democratic lawyer, who resides in the western portion of the State, in a strong Democratic County, declared that the nomination of Mr. Pershing was anything but satisfactory to the Democracy of his neighborhood, as he was known as a very common lawyer, and totally lacking in all the requisites for a seat on the Supreme Bench. He further remarked that he was a bitter uncompromising partisan, and he thought that no man ought to be placed on the Supreme Bench, who entertained opinions as one sided on all questions, as Mr. Pershing is known to entertain.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.—Has the Normal School become a dead letter? We are often asked about it, and being anxious to know something of the "situation," we simply make the inquiry of the gentlemen who had the matter in charge that we may be able to answer satisfactorily, any questions that may be put to us hereafter.

☞The New York Tribune thus sympathizes with the Democratic candidate for Governor:

"We cannot say how sorry we are for Mr. Packer, the "Democratic" candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania. He is said to be worth $20,000,000, and the way in which he will be phlebotomized by the party is painful to think of. He was rich enough to buy the nomination, but he isn't probably rich enough to buy an election. Great numbers of hungry fuglemen will profit by the depletion of Mr. Packer's purse; but it is pretty hard that the man should be forced to pay for the precious rib roasting which is in store for him. We have always thought that "Democratic" candidates should be handsomely paid for running; but here is an unfortunate who is set up to be knocked down, and then has to foot the bills! Poor Mr. Packer!

Again the Tribune says:

The Lancaster (Pa.) Intelligencer gives us the gratifying intelligence that the Hon. Asa Packer "in the gubernatorial chair will form a rampart to the rascalities of corrupt legislators," which is a nice thing to say to a man who notoriously bought his nomination. Gen. Jackson defended New Orleans behind a rampart of cotton-bags: are we to understand that the Hon. Asa will defend the Pennsylvania Treasury behind a rampart of his own money-bags? If the Hon. Asa Packer has assumed the responsibility of supporting "corrupt legislators" out of his own pocket, so much the better for his State; but the human nature of Mr. Packer being like human nature in general, we fancy that, under any circumstances, the shrewd gentleman means to make himself whole. It is poor Pennsylvania that will bleed at last.

The Savannah Republican, a Democratic paper says:

"It is a rare thing for the Northern Democrats to make a judicious nomination. * * * The party appears to have lost its brains. * * * They appear incapable of learning anything from the past. * * * The Pennsylvania nomination on Tuesday affords a striking example. They could have had the services of Hancock by anything like a unanimous nomination, and his name would have put a Democratic victory beyond a peradventure; but no, they must go off into a wild goose chase after a 'Copperhead' nominee, a well-known partisan, who will keep his minority party together and the opposition quite as firmly united."

☞Asa Packer, like Hon. Henry W. Williams, is a native of Connecticut. Will the papers which two years ago raised the cry of carpet-bagger against our distinguished candidate continue their howl? We have a Yankee now on both tickets, the only difference being that on the Democratic one he leads. Will the Democracy continue their assaults on New England and New England politics?

☞If there are any Douglass Democrats now acting with the Democracy, it may be interesting for them to know that Asa Packer was a delegate to the Charleston National Convention in 1860, from which he bolted and united with the Southern Secessionists, in nominating John C. Breckinridge as the secession candidate to defeat Stephen A. Douglass, the regular Democratic nominee.

☞It can be truly said of both Packer and Pershing, that the office sought the man, and not the man the office. Neither were at Harrisburg when the convention nominated them. —Clarion Democrat.

Just so. But Packer's money-bags were on the ground early, and soon made mince-meat of all other aspirants.

☞The Democracy threw overboard the only man they could possibly have succeeded with, and then turn round and insult by dubbing Packer as the "Soldiers' friend." In his "banishment," Hancock as in no very amiable mood toward the "high-toned," constitutional party.

A WARNING.—Another 'defalcation.' Another individual in such haste to be rich that he does not scruple to criminally risk in speculation money which does not belong to him. Can nothing be done to stay this madness? Scarcely a paper is opened which does not give particulars of some new departure from the straight and simple road. The prevalent mania for speculation and the no less to be deplored extravagance of city life have led to a doleful state of business morals. The corruption affects all classes, the highest as well as the lowest. Mr. Ballard, the Secretary of the Security Insurance Company, and who has absconded with $63,000 of the company's funds, was very prominent as an officer of the Young Men's Christian Association. His connections were all of this character, and, perhaps, no man in New York was further above suspicion than he. It seems incredible that he should have done this thing, yet do it he did. It is another sad illustration of the familiar words of Friar Laurence in the play: "Wisely and slow: they stumble that run fast."

BRIGHAM YOUNG.—Judge Trumbull, U. S. Senator from Illinois, in a recent conversation with Brigham Young in Salt Lake City, was told by Brigham that on returning to Congress he (the Judge) might hear of obnoxious Federal officials being put out of the Territory, and he might be sure it would be for just and good reasons. Trumbull replied that before he (Young) took such a step he should make known his grievances to President Grant, who would not permit a violation of law to go unpunished, and adding that it would "not be safe to molest public officers in the discharge of their duties." The Judge, as we read, then asked Young if he promised obedience to the Constitution and the laws of the Union, but there was one enactment that the Mormons would not obey, namely, the one forbidding polygamy.

HURRYGRAPHS.

The preliminary steps have been taken for the organization of a company having in view the holding of a World's Exposition of Manufactures, &c., in Washington, a year hence.

Wm. A. Galbraith of Erie has been appointed Chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Executive Committee, by ex Senator Backalew, President of the late Convention.

An Omaha dispatch says that a man named Broyldon, postmaster and express agent at Pacific City, Iowa, decamped with nearly $20,000 of the Company and Government funds on the 19th inst.

☞There is a highly Judaical old gentleman in Illinois who expects another flood, and has constructed an ark in which to save himself and his goods and chattels.

☞The steeple of Christ Church, Philadelphia, completed in 1775, is said to be the most durable and substantial in the city. The chime of bells hanging in it was the first imported into the United States.

The official return of the vote in Washington Territory, gives a total of 5,238—an increase in two years of 698. The majority of Garfield, Republican, for Delegate to Congress is 148. The vote on the question of a State government was very small, being 300 in favor and 688 against the proposition.

☞Eighty-four counties in Virginia give Walker 23,000 majority. The Senate will be composed of thirty-one white conservatives, eight white and four colored radicals. The House of Delegates will have ninety-seven white and three colored conservatives, and thirty-three white and eleven colored radicals.

☞The old "Temple Farm," near Yorktown, Va., upon which Lord Cornwallis surrendered his forces and signed the articles of capitulation, has just been sold by public auction. It contains from four to five hundred acres, and is said to be one of the best cultivated farms in that portion of the State. It brought $8,005.

The California Republican State Convention was held in San Francisco on the 22d inst. Lorenzo Sawyer and O. C. Pratt were nominated Judges of the Supreme Court. Among the resolutions adopted was one opposing China suffrage in any form, and any change in the naturalization laws of the United States; another approving the eight hour law, and a third indorsing the action of Congress on the Alabama claims question.

☞Col. C. G. Hammond, who was appointed General Superintendent of the Union Pacific Railroad, has accepted the position on condition that the differences with the Central Pacific Railroad be compromised, so as to admit of good service to the public, and fair rates be established. The companies have agreed to carry freight to New York at five cents per pound, greenbacks; also to furnish emigrant trains at $50 per passenger from New York, and $38 from Chicago.

☞An Englishman in Naples made a bet with some young Italians that he could set running all the lame and paralyzed beggars crouching in a certain corner of that city. Matters having been arranged, the Englishman retired, and after a while came rushing wildly round the nearest corner, followed by a rabble, all shouting, "The tiger is loose! the tiger is coming!" and dashing madly past the beggars, they, in their terror, forgot their professional trickery, and leaping to their feet, fled with the crowd.

A CURIOUS CASE.—The detectives of Milwaukee are "working up" a curious case of deception and robbery. A servant girl living in a family near that city, visited, last spring, a band of Gypsies and had her "fortune" told by one of them. The crafty old woman to whom she applied after one or two interviews told her that she must not marry a certain person—naming a respectable young farmer to whom she was engaged—that if she did, great harm would come to her, but that a brave heart was dying for her love—that it would come in the shape of a young man with a dark eye and black shining locks—that the young man would love and wed her—would turn out to be something or other in disguise, and her life would be so full of happiness that a drop more would spill it. Soon after, she saw a man answering to the above description wandering about the farm, became acquainted with him and finally eloped with him. On arriving at Chicago he robbed her of the little money she had saved and left her. She found work in Chicago and remained there until a week ago, when her old lover found her out and married her.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Huntingdon county, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention. If elected, I will discharge the duties of the office with fidelity and to the best of my ability. I was born in Huntingdon county, and the first vote I ever polled was for William Henry Harrison, in 1840. In August 1862, when all was gloomy and dark and our country and union in danger, I volunteered my service in Co. I, 125th Regiment, not for large bounty or big pay, but for the good of my country. On the 17th September, 1862, while engaged, was wounded in the arm, rendering it almost useless.

Scottsville Classical, Scientific and Commercial Academy.

This Institution is situated in the village of Scottsville, a location of unusual salubrity and remarkable for picturesque scenery. The adjacent mineral springs are held in high estimation for their medicinal properties. Few locations possess equal advantages for educational purposes. There are churches in the village affording ample opportunities for moral culture. No alcholic drinks are sold within seven miles, and the community is moral and intelligent. The course of instruction will be full and comprehensive; and lectures will be given on educational topics during the Session. First term opens AUGUST 24, 1869.

BAUGH'S
RAW BONE
SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

TRADE MARK

STANDARD WARRANTED.

We offer to Farmers, the present fall season, BAUGH'S RAW BONE SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME as being highly improved.

Baugh's Raw Bone Super Phosphate is, as its name indicates, prepared by dissolving Raw Bones in Oil of Vitriol—that is, bones that have not been deprived of their organic matter—the grease and glue—by burning or leaching. It, therefore, presents to the use of the farmer all the valuable properties of Raw Bones in a highly concentrated form—rendering it at once quick in action and very permanent.

☞Farmers are recommended to purchase of the dealer located in their neighborhood. In sections where no dealer is yet established, the PHOSPHATE may be procured directly from the undersigned.

The large and increasing sales of these

SUPERIOR GLASSES

Is a sure proof of their usefulness. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and rendily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant distinctness to their eyes in all cases, were to themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

Brief Items.

Time flies in fly-time.

A few cool nights last week.

Some "red-hot" weather coming.

Hollidaysburg has door-step soirees.

Altoona has a half mile driving course.

Huntingdon is blest with few 'local items' this week.

C. Holera Morbus is in town. He lives on everything green.

Mr. Arthur McMurtrie has our thanks for some Springfield, Mo., papers.

Some heavy storms are predicted. Thank you, not any more this way.

It will be twenty-eight years before the 4th of July will again fall on Sunday.

Republicans should not forget the delegate elections on Saturday, the 7th of August.

The circus will be in town on Saturday next—Red Front will be headquarters for bargains.

The standing conundrum which brings all up standing: "Can you settle that little account?"

The oil of pennyroyal will keep musquitos out of a room, scattered about, even in small quantities.

The Vindicator, of Altoona, made $701,71 out of the recent pic-nic, gotten up for its benefit. Divide, neighbor.

Mr. Wm. Hughes, of Lewistown, in attempting to lift a child by the arm, recently, broke the bone near the wrist.

A dandy inquired at a fruit stall, Are these apples fit for a hog to eat?" "Try one and see," said the woman.

A two-year old child of Mr. George Chilcoat was drowned in a spring in Tod township, this county, on the 17th inst.

Gov. Geary joined the tribe of Red Men last week. We would have liked to have been there to see.

Billy Dunn last week lost a pocket-book containing $3.75, which the finder can either return to him, this office, or Fishers' store.

Wm. Long, of Union township, this county, was accidentally shot in the foot, some days ago, but not seriously injured.

Our job presses were kept busy last week. Like a stage-coach we are never too crowded as there is always room for "one more."

If you don't think our ladies believe in woman's right to treat themselves to Soda Water, just drop in at Africa & Co's and C.

Our borough fathers have passed an act compelling our citizens to improve their side walks. The act can be seen on the street corners.

Correspondents can have no dread of seeing their productions published, if they do not puff, if they write local news, and if they send us their name.

Was it because the clown was a very modest man that he had a large crowd of hearers every night? It's funny—clowns are more popular than preachers—and that's a fact.

Copies of the editor's autograph are now for sale at this office—price $2.00. Every purchaser will receive a copy of the Globe for one year.

The preacher who makes applications in his pulpit from every day occurrences is generally the most successful, because he brings his subject nearer home.

An inebriate disturbed a meeting on our street last week by a loud bellow, when the speaker cuttingly replied: "Hostler, ring the bell, one of the mules has broke loose."

S. M. Stewart, of Huntingdon county, and Dr. J. M. Miller, of Perry, represent this Senatorial district, upon the Democratic State Central Committee for the present year

Jacob Limbert was buried at Dayton, O., last week, and at his funeral were present his eleven children, his eighty-five grandchildren and his twenty-five great-grandchildren.

We heard a soap-vender say that the people of Huntingdon were the most easily humbugged of any town he was ever in. Come on, ye humbugs, and let's hear the cry—"Enough."

The editor of the Bedford Press killed Amos Keeter last week. Singular to state the community sympathize with the editor, and the law for slaughter will not have its course.

Candidates and their friends are informed that all communications urging their claims must be paid at the rate of five cents a line when printed—eight words in manuscript counting a line. Terms cash.

Cambria county is to have a $10,000 prisoners' hotel—otherwise, a jail. It will have all the conveniences of getting in and keeping in. The Sheriff will do all the "keeping inn." By the by, where is Huntingdon Co's new jail?

The railing around the Mexican monument, in Harrisburg, is said to be of a unique and curious pattern. The posts represent a bundle of arrows surmounted by Roman battle axes; the uprights are made of condemned muskets with bayonets attached.

The Lewistown Democrat says that on Tuesday morning, 20th ult., as a Mrs. Carney of Granville township, was about to make up the beds in the morning, she found a large snake on the bed rail. It was a house snake, and escaped without being killed.

Four evenings last week were taken up by a traveling doctor to advertise his nostrums. He held forth in the Diamond, and had a clown, a fiddle, melodeon and horn to assist him in blowing. He had large crowds each evening, and had a good fat pocket-book when he left off humbugging.

Two men named David Sellers and Frank Fogel had an altercation at the Rolling Mill in Hollidaysburg recently. The former had his thigh injured and the latter was struck in the temple. The weapon used were iron tongs, which we believe are not allowed in any well regulated P. R.

The voting for the Chamber Set worth $25 will close on Saturday evening next, and the vote will be announced about 10 o'clock the same evening. Until then the contest will be open and bargains in goods offered at Enterprise Headquarters to all who may feel an interest in the voting or who desire to encourage quick sales and small profits.

A large party of Philadelphia excursionists are now encamped on the Juniata river, at Burn's Bluff, a short distance this side of Lewistown. They are provided with tents, two cabinet organs, groceries, cooking utensils, quoits, balls, bats, chess, chequers, fishing tackle, etc., and evidently intend enjoying themselves.

To the Citizens of Huntingdon.

Last winter the Young Men's Christian Association gave a series of lectures that were a source of much pleasure, and served greatly to enliven the town. The Association desire to get up a course of from six to ten lectures and readings for the coming winter, but as they suffered financially by last winter's course, and as it is hardly fair to ask a young society, working only for the public good, to bear the risk and responsibility of so large a course of lectures, they propose the following plan for the coming winter, in order that they may feel assured beforehand that they will be sustained in their effort. A committee will call upon the citizens of the town and ascertain how many will take "SEASON TICKETS;" price five dollars; each ticket to admit two to the whole course. If about one hundred and fifty season tickets can be sold, the Association will immediately communicate with John B. Gough, John G. Saxe, Mrs. Randall, and other popular lecturers, and if possible secure their services; if the tickets cannot be sold the Association cannot bear the risk, and the lecture project will have to be abandoned. The cry generally is "how dull is this old town;" the opportunity is now offered, which if accepted and patronized, will insure many evenings of true pleasure and entertainment. In a financial view this plan is advantageous to the buyor of season tickets, for if a single admission were fifty cents, in a course of six, eight or ten lectures, the cost for two would be six, eight or ten dollars.

Run Off.

A young horse belonging to Mr. Logan, County Treasurer, became unmanageable in the Diamond, on Friday morning last. Mr. L. was trying to break it of running to the stable every time he passed, and he used the whip to do it. The horse not liking this forcible training commenced backing and kicking, and suddenly turning the sulky, upset Mr. Logan and then started off on a double quick to the stable. The sulky was badly damaged, and Mr. Logan saved himself from being dragged by knocking the lines off his feet with his hands.

ANOTHER.—On Friday afternoon a horse belonging to Mr. John Cunningham broke loose from a hitching post at McCahan's grove, and ran to town, breaking a new buggy into pieces—Fortunately nobody was in the buggy at the time the horse started.

Bold Robbery.

A burglar entered the residence of Mr. Asel Hight, in West Huntingdon, on Sunday evening last, while the family were at church, and secreted himself in some part of the house until the family had retired. He then went on his work of plunder, and entered Mr. Hight's bed chamber, when he was discovered, about three o'clock. He made a hasty retreat, but not until he had stolen a watch, a pocket-book containing about $15, and some articles of clothing. Mr. R. followed the thief down stairs, but he slipped off before he could be caught. The burglar left a butcher knife in Mr. Hight's bedroom, which leads to the suspicion that murder was intended.

Leased.

Huntingdon Academy has been leased to Prof. Jas. A. Stephens of New Bloomfield, Pa. Prof. Stephens is an educator of long and successful experience, and believes that with a little sympathy and co-operation from the friends of education, a very prosperous institution can be established at this place. He means to make a most worthy effort, and now let those interested in education, appreciate this advantage and lend a helping influence to so desirable an enterprise.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday last John Williamson, a carpenter apprentice, of this place, employed in Smith's building, had a severe gash cut in his shoulder by a chisel falling from a scaffold. The wound was dressed and he will soon recover.

Riddlesburg Furnace.

"The furnace of the Kemble Coal and Iron Company, at Riddlesburg, was completed and put in successful operation on the first inst. It is one of the finest hot blast furnaces in the United States. Work was commenced on its construction on May 20, 1868, by excavating and grading railroad siding and getting in stone. A stack 44 feet high, of stone, and 16 feet of boiler iron, was built. The hearth and inwall are of best quality of fire-brick. There are two hot blast ovens, of Player's patent, containing 100 tons of castings, one steam blast engine, with steam cylinder 32 inches in diameter, 6 feet stroke, a blast cylinder 6 feet in diameter, 6 feet stroke, capable of producing from 5,000 to 6,000 cubic feet of air per minute, six boilers, each 36 inches in diameter and 45 feet long, with mud boiler and steam drums attached, with steam stop-valves and safety-valves, including all necessary attachments for convenience of working. Stock is delivered at the trundle-head by water-lift, the water being supplied for lift and tuyorers by two Cameron steam-pumps, capable of delivering one thousand gallons of water per minute. In fact all modern improvements in furnace-building have been introduced. The furnace is constructed for using coke as fuel, and it is calculated that a small amount of raw coal can be used successfully. Coke is made in the Pittsburg oven, of Broad Top Coal and so far has proved an entire success. It does not furnish as large an amount of gas as was anticipated, but a little time and raw coal will overcome this difficulty. The amount of iron that will be made per day is yet to be determined, but it is estimated that at least 20 tons will be produced every 24 hours, and possibly this rate may be exceeded. The stack and ovens contain 250,000 fire-brick and about 300,000 common brick. The furnace will consume 80 tons of coal per day and about 6,000 tons of limestone per year. About 2½ tons of the fossil ore used at the furnace, will make a ton of metal. The Company own in fee simple a large tract of coal and ore lands, the best and most accessible in that region, and have within themselves all the elements of success in the manufacture of Pig iron. Daniel Worden, Esq., is the Superintendent of the works, and is a gentleman admirably qualified to discharge the onerous duties of that responsible position. The company could not have made a better selection. In truth, the furnace at Riddlesburg is a splendid achievement and will add greatly to the wealth and prosperity of our country. It is, however, only the pioneer of other works of a similar character, which will soon follow." M. J.

Mr. John Fulton, Resident Engineer, writing of this enterprise says: "During the first week of its operations it made 86½ tons of superior No. 2 grey foundry metal. When full load and blast shall be attained, it is expected that 150 tons of metal per week will be produced.

"Our experience teaches us that the old proverb is true—'misfortune comes not singly,' but it is evident also that the converse of this proposition is also truth. For, during the progress of the construction of this furnace, explorations west of Marklesburg, developed the presence of a mammoth seam of rich iron ore along the flank of Tussey's Mountain. There it is open 9 feet thick. Recent openings on the same deposit traced to the Powelton Coal & Iron Co's lands, west of Coffee Run, show a solid seam of excellent iron ore, in the Levant series, Clinton groupe, and extending as far as the measures extend in which it is inclosed. The ore has been used and tested in the furnaces of the Cambria Iron Co., and declared excellent. Who shall map out the future of Broad Top, with its inexhaustible supply of coal and coke on the eastern flank of its Railroad, and its inexhaustible supply of rich iron ores along its western flank.

"Truly, Broad Top gleams under the brightening rays of a new era. Solving the great problem so long and clearly indicated to man by the Creator of all—the union in the furnace of the twin sources of industry and wealth —coal and iron ore.

"We hail with unmingled delight the dawn of the iron era, in the Broad Top Coal and Iron Region."

Pittsburgh Female College.

We have recieved the fourteenth annual catalogue of this first class institution from Dr. Pershing, its worthy President. We learn from this catalogue that there have been in attendance during the past year two hundred and ninety-four ladies. This shows the continued prosperity of this widely known institution of learning, and the general estimation in which it is held. Its students are not only from the most prominent and influential families in our midst, but they flock here from the extreme west, and also from the east. The faculty number over twenty teachers, and in their talents, their aptness to teach, and their long experience, cannot be surpassed by any in the country. The course of study embraces all that is taught in our first class institutions The training is thorough, and it is the aim of the teachers to discipline the mind, to teach those placed under their care to think, and not only to learn definitions, and whole pages of matter, without understanding their meaning.

Although so much attention and care is bestowed upon the literary department, the ornamental branches are not neglected. There are five teachers of music. Instruction is given in French and German by native teachers. There are also teachers of drawing, painting, needle-work, wax-work, etc. With such advantages, we do not hesitate in saying that any parent sending their daughter to this school may feel confident that she will receive a proper training and acquire a finished education. The fall term will open on Wednesday, September 1st. Rev. I. C. Pershing will send a catalogue to any address upon application.

ENTERPRISE HEADQUARTERS,

HUNTINGDON, PA.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Why is it that your town does not improve? is a question often asked by strangers who visit it. The invariable reply is, we have not the men who will improve it. It cannot be said with truth that we have not the wealth, for we believe there is scarcely a town on the line of the Pennsylvania Central that possesses in its citizens so much capital as Huntingdon. We do not propose to determine how our wealthy men amassed their wealth, but of one thing we are certain, that it has not been by investment in any home enterprise. The investments upon which they have realized heavy percentage were centered upon foreign institutions that have benefitted the towns in which they are located to the extent in which they have succeeded. The prosperity of other localities are attributable to the success of the manufactures in their midst, and it is this fact which leads us to comment upon the lack of the same institutions in our own midst.—Strangers have good cause to wonder at our want of enterprise when they notice the great natural advantages which Huntingdon possesses as a manufacturing town. The supply of water is abundant, and the area is sufficient, the general health of our citizens warrants the assumption that it is a healthy location; and added to these natural advantages we have two railroads, one going east and west, and the other south. The public roads leading to and from Huntingdon are numerous, but it is true they are not the best; but public spirit started in one direction would soon pervade and prevail in another, and it would not be long until our public roads could be made as good as any in the State. All that is wanting to make Huntingdon one of the largest business towns in the State is a proper spirit of enterprise to take possession of the now laggard propensities of our citizens. We have many men who will acknowledge the truth of the remarks of strangers about the lack of enterprise in our town, and whilst they sometimes think of doing something, they have not the heart to put their plans in execution. We want more determination in fulfilling a project and less speculation on the probable success of it. Our town will never grow if we give up to ruminating on different enterprises. To succeed in anything we must first lay our plans and then work diligently. We could have had a host of institutions in our town long ere this if the thought of them could bring them here. It takes more than this, and much could be done if our capitalists would come together, meditate on some enterprise, and then resolve to put it up immediately.

IMPROVEMENT.

BROAD TOP CITY, July 22, 1869.

Editors Globe:—Having a leisure moment we have concluded to give you a few jottings by the way-side en route for this place. We passed up the Aughwick valley to Scottsville, through Hare's valley across Sidling Hill mountain to Cassville. All along this route the farmers are just finishing cutting their grain crop which is the best that has been harvested in these valleys for a number of years. Oats and grass, yet standing, also promise well. There seems to be no cause for complaint in regard to crops of any kind this season.

At Cassville we were the guest of Rev. S. A. Creveling, in charge of Cassville circuit M. E. church. He is flourishing and has a very fine charge. Cassville is a very pleasant little village. The people are kind and hospitable. Among the numerous good things connected with this place is a flourishing Lodge of Good Templars. Long may its bannerwave.

From here we passed down through Trough Creek valley. This is one of the best valleys in Huntingdon county. The soil is red shoal, underlaid with limestone, is in a good state of cultivation, and altogether a very pleasant place to be. Passing up the mountain we were tempted to do as did a certain woman in ancient days, look back; but how different the scene! Here we could look over the whole valley. The sight was one of the most beautiful we have ever beheld. The grain fields dotted over with shocks of grain awaiting to be gathered into the barns, the grass and oat crops awaiting for the reaper, the corn fields waving with their almost black green, making the whole valley have the loveliness of a flower-garden. We gained the summit just in time to see the sun setting behind the western hill. And here we are housed in the Mountain House as snugas a bug in a rug, with the best the country can afford to eat and fresh mountain water to drink. There are about fifty visitors here at this time.

The mining business is rather dull here although things seem to be moving along smoothly. SAM.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—It will be seen by the advertisement of Prof. Stewart, published in your paper, that he intends to open a school for teachers at Petersburg, to commence on Monday, August the 2d.

It is expected that S. P. McDivitt, who graduated with a great deal of credit the present session at the Millersville State Normal School, will be associated with Prof. S., and though the undersigned has no pecuniary interest in the school, yet whatever time can be spared from other official duties will be devoted to assisting the gentlemen named in conducting the school.

One of the greatest hindrances to progress in our schools is unqualified teachers. During the last year teachers were very scarce and in order to supply the schools certificates were granted that would otherwise have been withheld, but unless those who hold a low grade of certificate make some effort to improve they will not again be licensed to teach in this county; for it is a waste of time, money and talent to employ such teachers, and rather than see so many incompetent teachers employed again I would prefer that a portion of our schools should not be taught.

With such instructors as Messrs. Stewart and McDivitt we cannot fail to have a good school, and it is hoped that a large number of those intending to teach will avail themselves of this opportunity to improve.

D. F. TUSSEY, Co. Supt.

To the Editors of the Globe:—SIRS:—The time is rapidly approaching when our Republican party is to designate candidates for the respective offices of Huntingdon county. In looking over your much admired columns it is with great pleasure that we see the name of the gallant and patriotic Capt. Chorp announced for the office of County Treasurer.

We recommend this individual not because we wish every office to be filled with a soldier whether competent or not; but because he was disabled for life in his country's service, and is as thoroughly competent for the office which he offers himself for as any man in the county. But a few words will we say about his scholarship, for it is known by many throughout the county. He enlisted in 1862 in Co. I of the 12th Regiment, P. V., which soon after joined the Army of the Potomac. He engaged in all the battles in which his regiment did, and was only off duty three days until the battle of Antietam.—It was in this giant struggle for liberty that a rifle ball shattered his right arm, and made him a fit subject for our grateful nation's protecting care. Aside from his military reputation Mr. Cloyd is known as a fine scholar, and a frugal and honest young man of unimpeachable character.

In conclusion the writer can say from well known facts that Mr. Cloyd, best of all, is no political quack, and that he always attends to his own business. With a character of spotless integrity and with but one arm, who has a better right to our offices of profit and to a place in our memory and affections than Lt. Cloyd? The honest masses have already nominated him for the office for which he offers himself. The soldier remembers the days of our trouble; the farmer and mechanic know their duty. All we in this section ask of the Republican Convention to be held in the town of Huntingdon on August 10th is to remember the will of the Republican masses and to confer honor on those to whom honor is due. SCOTTSVILLE.

☞ If the ladies but knew what thousands of them are constantly relating to us, we candidly believe one half of the weakness, prostration and distress experienced by them would vanish. James Marsh, Esq., 159 West 14th St., N. Y., says, "he has three children, the first two are weak and puny, his wife having been unable to nurse or attend them, but she has taken Plantation Bitters for the last two years, and has a child now eighteen months old which she has nursed and reared herself, and both are hearty, saucy and well. The article is invaluable to mothers," &c.

Such evidence might be continued for a volume. The best evidence is to try them. They speak for themselves. Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, diabetas, &c., will find speedy relief through these Bitters.

You don't have to pay for a vote at Enterprise Headquarters. You get the worth of your money in what you purchase. Enterprise Headquarters stands the expense of the presents—we only want the people to name by their votes who are to receive them. The Clergyman (or Clergyman's family,) receiving the highest number of votes will receive the $25 Chamber Sett—the four families receiving the highest number of votes will receive the four sacks of flour. The contest will not be confined to Huntingdon borough—every Clergyman (or Clergyman's family) in the county can be voted for. The voting of flour will also be to any family in the county.

FOR EVERY 25 CENTS WORTH PURCHASED YOU HAVE A VOTE.

The Chamber Sett of fourteen pieces is now on exhibition at Red Front—call and see it.

We want an interesting time and guarantee a fair election. The votes will be counted on the first of August.

MARRIED,

On the 25th of May, by Rev. H. Baker, Mr. WM. LININGER, to Miss MARY MCCLOSKEY, both of Altoona.

DIED,

In Petersburg, on Friday, the 23d inst., JOSEPH M. STEVENS, in the 50th year of his age. His remains were interred on Saturday with Masonic honors.

Near Huntingdon, July 14th, 1869, Mr. CORNELIUS DEASY, aged about 42 years.

The deceased was a native of the County Cork, Ireland, and emigrated to this country, about thirteen years ago. He was an employee on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and during the heavy gust on Wednesday the 14th, was struck by lightning. He was an exemplary member of the Catholic Church, and was an honest and upright man. But a few months ago, a mother was laid beneath the sod, and one brother was all the relative that was present, to follow his remains to their last resting place. Although stranger as he was, in a strange land, there were those who knew him, that mourn his sudden and untimely death. Buford thought that one moment—less than a moment—one flash of lightning, should hurl an immortal soul into Eternity. What a warning! in tones of thunder; it bids us: "Be ye also ready, for ye know not at what hour the son of man cometh." May he rest in peace, free from the cares of earth. M. A. G.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels thoroughly well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

McGUIRE'S
SPANISH HAIR DRESSER
FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S
Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head; whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S
WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.

Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to
